ANZA Korea - Autumn Kimjang (Kimchi-making)

Marking the approach of winter, ANZA Korea members came together on Sunday November 27 to learn how to make kimchi, which is traditionally made in autumn to prepare for the winter.

Making kimchi and sharing it is a communal process known as kimjang. Various types of kimchi are made and eaten throughout the year - but the autumn kimjang is usually an important family and community milestone before the cold season.

It was great to see everyone make kimchi and pajeon (savory green onion pancake), enjoying the crispy pajeon alongside some delicious makgeolli (Korean rice wine) after an afternoon of hard work.

We thank everyone who joined the event, and really appreciate Sun Ho Lee's generosity in hosting the event.
